Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The General Value of Visual Sense Training in Children, Vol. 15 Contributions to the experimental study of the transfer of training (formal discipline) scarcely need either apology or introduction in a period when, despite the considerable amount of investigation, so very much still remains undetermined with respect to the amount of such transfer and the mechanism by means of which it takes place. The special features of this contribution by Dr. Wang, a Chinese government student at the University of Michigan, lie in the use of school children as subjects and in the use of sense-training as the medium of experimentation. In this latter aspect his study will be particularly welcome from the light it throws upon the issue of sense-training, which is almost a fetish of the adherents of the, at present, so popular Montessori method.
